

PRESENTERS

Chris Fogarty, Cameron & Co, Christchurch

Chris was admitted to the bar in 1990 and after having undertaken a broad general practice in his earlier career, now regards himself as a specialist family practitioner. Chris undertakes a range of family work but considers his role as lawyer for child as the most satisfying aspect of his job. He has presented seminars to local practitioners on other family law related matters. In Chris' view the role of lawyer for child is vitally important where there is a dispute involving children and their voice needs to be heard.

Dr Rachel Zajac, University of Otago, Dunedin

Rachel is a Senior Lecturer in Psychology at the University of Otago, where her primary area of research expertise is eyewitness evidence. She is frequently called on to advise police officers, judges, and lawyers on interviewing children and adults about their experiences.

The statements and conclusions contained in this booklet are those of the author(s) only and not those of the New Zealand Law Society.
