

PRESENTERS

Rachael Dewar, Rachael Dewar Law, Wellington

Rachael is a mediator and lawyer based in the Wellington CBD. She specialises in family law and has been mediating family disputes for many years.

She sees her role as empowering parents to make good decisions leading to the best outcomes for their children. This includes drafting robust agreements that are clear and comprehensive so that parents are guided on important issues and their role as guardians.

Rachael is currently a member of the Family Law Section Executive of the New Zealand Law Society.

Amy Oberkircher, Mediator, Auckland

Amy has studied in the US, France and NZ obtaining her BA from Colgate University, New York, then completing her LLB(Hons) at Auckland University. Whilst practising civil litigation, insurance law and family law, Amy completed her Diploma in Dispute Resolution at Massey University, where she was awarded the AMINZ medal for top academic performance.

Amy is currently an FDR Duty Mediator with FairWay Resolution, and also mediates in many different areas including disputes relating to care of children, relationship property, professional sport, employment relations, and property disputes.
