

PRESENTERS

Keri Morris, FairWay Resolution, Wellington

Keri is Head of Family Services at FairWay, which includes resolving relationship property matters and Family Dispute Resolution. She is an AMINZ Fellow (Mediation), an accredited FDR Provider and conflict coach and holds a Graduate Diploma in Business Studies (Dispute Resolution) from Massey University. With experience in a range of mediations, including workplace disputes, Keri likes to challenge traditional prescriptive dispute resolution models, and encourage mediators to work with their clients to build their own capacity to resolve future disputes.

Hayden Wilson, Dentons Kensington Swan, Wellington

Hayden leads the Wellington litigation team, specialising in public, regulatory and commercial litigation. He is recognised as a leading litigator and a skilled mediator, and has extensive experience dealing with complex commercial and public law disputes. Hayden trained as a mediator through the Resolution Institute in New Zealand, and at the Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution at Pepperdine University in California.
