

PRESENTERS

Brittany Peck, Solicitor, John Miller Law, Wellington

Brittany graduated with a BA/BSC before going on to study law. She worked as the support worker for a man with cerebral palsy and then as a Health Care Assistant at Wellington Hospital while completing her LLB. This inspired an interest in medico-legal issues and advocacy. In 2012 Brittany joined John Miller Law as a clerk and has been there ever since. She practises in the areas of criminal, mental health, and ACC law, as well as being a volunteer lawyer at Wellington Community Law Centre.

Peter Sara, Peter Sara Lawyer, Dunedin

Peter graduated with a LLB from the University of Otago in 1978. His first law job was working in the litigation department of Haigh Lyon and Co., Auckland, and part of his job was to assist the senior partner Frank Haigh, in ACC work, which was then in its infancy. Thus began Peter's experience in doing ACC work, including reviews and appeals. He set up on his own account as a sole practitioner in 1999 and has specialised in ACC work ever since, including being involved in making submissions on ACC law reform on behalf of the former District Law Societies and since 2009, the NZLS Accident Compensation Committee. Peter is the convenor of the Committee.

NON-PRESENTING AUTHOR

Molly McCarthy, Barrister, Woodward Street Chambers, Wellington

Molly is an independent barrister with particular interest in general civil litigation, judicial review, accident compensation, and criminal law. Prior to joining Woodward Street Chambers, she was a junior barrister at Stout Street Chambers, and a solicitor on Russell McVeagh's litigation and public law teams. Molly has been a member of the New Zealand Law Society's ACC Law Reform Committee since 2019. She has also undertaken secondments at the Accident Compensation Corporation and Wellington's Community Law Centre, where she has been a volunteer lawyer since 2016.
