

PRESENTER

Victoria Casey, Barrister, Wellington

Victoria joined Thomas More Chambers in November 2012 following five years as Crown Counsel with the Crown Law Office's Human Rights and Tax & Commercial Teams, previously working for Bell Gully, Meredith Connell and Sly and Weigall (Canberra). Specialising in public law litigation, she was counsel assisting the Inquiry into allegations regarding the Hon Judith Collins and the former director the Serious Fraud Office.

CONTENTS

GATHERING AND DISPOSING OF INFORMATION UNDER THE INQUIRIES ACT 2013 – PRACTICAL INSIGHTS FROM THE COLLINS INQUIRY	1
INTRODUCTION	1
The Collins inquiry	1
HOW INQUIRIES GATHER INFORMATION	1
The inquiry process	1
Information gathering powers	3
LIMITS ON INFORMATION GATHERING POWERS: WHEN CAN YOU SAY NO?	4
Privilege under the Evidence Act	4
Concurrent or pending criminal investigations	4
Parliamentary Privilege	5
Can an inquiry use unlawfully obtained material?	6
Other grounds for refusing to provide information?	6
WHAT HAPPENS TO INFORMATION: THE OFFICIAL INFORMATION ACT AND SUPPRESSION ORDERS.....	7
The OIA	7
Suppression orders	7
In practice:	8