

Commerce on the Internet – the legal implications of the internet

PART ONE	1
1. INTRODUCTION	3
2. THE INTERNET - STRUCTURE AND LAW	7
Internet structure	7
The old internet	8
Electronic mail	14
Breaking the law on the net	17
Conclusion	22
3. REGULATING CYBERSPACE: CODE VS LAW?	23
Introduction: King Canute's comeback	23
The nature of cyberspace	23
Code or law? - The nature of cyberspace regulation	28
Regulation as a function of four types of constraints	29
Regulation by code / regulation of code - illustrative examples	33
A concluding comment	48
Other potential examples	48
PART TWO	49
4. SETTING UP COMMERCIAL SITES ON THE WEB	51
Introduction	51
Some very basic definitions	52
The players	53
The telco's and the ISPs	56
The checklists for common agreements	59
Technical issues	88
Contract advice and drafting Issues	89
Practice points	91
Appendix - IDG Publication Attachments	93
5. INTERNET COMMERCE/COPYRIGHT	96
Copyright in a web site	96
The contents of the web site	96
Practical steps to discourage linking	100
6. THE NATURE OF DOMAIN NAMES	102
US origins	102
Domain names in New Zealand	104
Trademarks as domain names	104

Domain names v trademarks	108
Other issues	116
Conclusion	117
Appendix I	118
Appendix II	121
Appendix III	125
Appendix IV	141
Appendix V	144
7. RISK AND COMPLIANCE – THE NEW ZEALAND DIMENSION	146
Introduction	146
Electronic commerce: where is the real risk?	146
Example: website misstatements	147
Marketing risk on the net	150
Door to Door Sales Act 1967	150
The dangers of caching	151
Defamation	151
Company Details	152
Brief Check-List – Websites/Electronic Commerce	153
8. PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW	154
The nature of private international law	154
The relevance of private international law to internet commerce	155
Suing an overseas defendant in New Zealand	156
Advising a New Zealand company sued overseas	159
The substantive rules governing a dispute	160
Some practical issues when designing a web site	162
Employer liability for use of the internet by employees	163
Final comments	163
PART THREE	165
9. ISSUES OF CONTRACT FORMATION	167
What is meant by "electronic commerce"?	167
Originating EDI (proprietary systems)	168
Current developments in electronic commerce	169
EDI agreements	169
The impact of the internet on electronic commerce	170
The need for electronic commerce terms and conditions	171
Checklists for proprietary EDI/electronic commerce systems	172
Open EDI/electronic commerce on the net	173
The interactive, dynamic nature of on-line contracts	173
What is different about an electronic contract?	175
Applying traditional contract law to cyberspace relationships	175
Identifying the parties with the legal liability	175

Achieving certainty in the dynamic environment of internet	175
Fiscal issues (consideration)	175
Proving and enforcing the contract	176
Appendix I	177
Appendix II	180
Appendix III	186
Appendix IV	203
10. THE LAW COMMISSION PROJECT: DEVELOPING A NEW ZEALAND LEGAL INFRASTRUCTURE	221
Background	221
Commercial law reform	222
Some problems	223
Electronic signatures	224
Other issues	226
Conclusion	227
11. TAX ASPECTS OF ELECTRONIC COMMERCE FOR NEW ZEALAND BUSINESS	229
Introduction	229
Analytical framework	230
New Zealand business advertising on the internet	235
New Zealand business taking orders etc on the internet	236
New Zealand business providing goods or services on line	239
New Zealand business buying items on line	243
Sources	245
12. PROTECTING SECURITY AND CONFIDENTIALITY ON THE INTERNET	247
Introduction	247
Encryption - a short primer	248
Authentication and repudiation	249
Secure internet protocols	250
Forensics - gathering evidence	251
Summary	252
References	253