Richard Best, Richard Best Law, Best + Hancock Consortium, Wellington

Richard Best is a sole practitioner specialising in technology, commercial and public law as well as public sector procurement and is a founding member of the Best + Hancock consortium of sole practitioners (www.besthancock.com). The consortium is a member of the All-of-government External Legal Services Panel. Richard is also a member of the Creative Commons Aotearoa New Zealand legal panel. Admitted to the High Court in 1996, he has practised law in both the private and public sectors: Bell Gully (1996-1999), Ashurst (London and Frankfurt, 1999-2005), the Commerce Commission (2006), State Services Commission (December 2006 to June 2009) and Department of Internal Affairs (July 2009 to January 2012).

Andrew Scott-Howman, Barrister, Wellington

Andrew is a barrister based in Wellington. He is an employment law specialist. Andrew practises in all aspects of employment law, with a particular interest in IT issues in the workplace. He is the co-author of Workplace Stress in New Zealand (Thomson Reuters), and also maintains an employment law blog. He has worked as a corporate advisor (partner at Bell Gully 2003-2008) and has also practised at the Crown Solicitor's Office.

The statements and conclusions contained in this booklet are those of the author(s) only and not those of the New Zealand Law Society. This booklet has been prepared for the purpose of a Continuing Legal Education course. It is not intended to be a comprehensive statement of the law or practice, and should not be relied upon as such. If advice on the law is required, it should be sought on a formal, professional basis.
