FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS	17
Mum needs a premium room because of her disability. Surely that means the Ministry of Health ought to pay?	17
Mum has moved out of the house into a rest home, so her life interest has expired. How can MSD take it into account?	17
My client is well over the threshold to qualify for a subsidy. The Crown’s alternative to subsidy is the Residential Care Loan. Looking at access to the loan scheme, the Rest Home is threatening to evict my client because they have not paid, surely that is exceptional and means a loan must be granted?	18
My client created a trust many years ago for legitimate reasons – is their intention taken into account?	18
Mum and dad have worked hard all their lives and mum is devastated she will have to use all their nest egg to pay for dad’s care and there will be nothing left for her or to leave to their children. Surely this cannot be right?	18
So if they might be “penalised” for trying to look after their money, surely they should just spend it all and pay to take their family on a world trip?	18
Can my clients get around this by simply enter into a Relationship Property Agreement, allowing them to hold their property as they wish?	19
