

CHAIR

Paul Rishworth QC, Britomart Chambers, and Faculty of Law, University of Auckland

Paul practises as a barrister specialising in public law, including human rights law. He retains a fractional appointment at Auckland Law School teaching Advanced Public Law and an LLM course in human rights. Paul has been a regular presenter of NZLS CLE seminars and is a co-author of The New Zealand Bill of Rights, Oxford, 2003.

SPEAKERS

Martha Coleman, Barrister, Wellington

Martha is a barrister practising in public and human rights law. She is a Panel Convenor for the New Zealand Parole Board and a District Inspector for Mental Health. Martha holds law degrees from Victoria and Yale. Prior to becoming a lawyer, she worked on equal pay issues as a researcher, including for equal pay claimants in the United Kingdom.

Marcelo Rodriguez Ferrere, University of Otago, Dunedin

Marcelo is a senior lecturer at the Faculty of Law at the University of Otago. His research interests include administrative law, constitutional law and the regulation of the relationship between humans and non-human animals.

Toby Fisher, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade, Wellington

Toby recently joined MFAT from Crown Law. Prior to his return to New Zealand in early 2018, he spent more than a decade as a barrister in London where he had a wide-ranging public and international law practice. He is co-author of the chapter on freedom of expression in “Human Rights Practice” and has a Master’s in international human rights law from the London School of Economics.

Catherine Fleming, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade, Wellington

Currently associate counsel at MFAT, Catherine previously worked at Kensington Swan and Crown Law, where she was involved in major discrimination and pay equity litigation.

SPEAKERS

Frances Joychild QC, Barrister, Auckland

Frances is an Auckland Queen's Counsel and former Law Commissioner. She specialises in civil litigation, human rights and public law. Frances was counsel for the plaintiff in several recent leading human rights cases.

Robert Kirkness, Thorndon Chambers, Wellington

Robert specialises in commercial, public and international law, with particular expertise in disputes that raise issues of public or private international law. He regularly advises clients on issues of human rights law. He has previously worked in the international arbitration team of a leading international law firm in Paris and Singapore, the Human Rights Team at the Crown Law Office and the commercial litigation team of a leading New Zealand law firm.

Austin Powell, Crown Law, Wellington

Austin is a Senior Crown Counsel in the Constitutional and Human Rights team at Crown Law. As part of a varied public law practice with an emphasis on human rights, extradition and international law he has argued numerous cases on the Bill of Rights Act 1990 for the Crown.
