

PRESENTER

Anthony C Hughes-Johnson QC, Christchurch

Tony is a commercial litigator with wide-ranging experience in civil litigation at all levels of the courts. Whilst a specialist area of practice has been local government and resource management law, he conducts a broadly-based commercial litigation practice.

In 1995 Tony was appointed by the Solicitor-General of New Zealand to act as counsel to assist the Commission of Inquiry into the Collapse of a Viewing Platform at Cave Creek, near Punakaiki on the West Coast.

Tony was appointed Queen's Counsel in 1998.

Tony is a Fellow (Arbitration) of the Arbitrators' and Mediators' Institute of New Zealand Inc. and holds an appointment as Fellowship Admission Assessor for the Institute.

Tony regularly provides advice to members of the legal profession and others in relation to professional conduct matters including acting as counsel in professional disciplinary matters.

Tony has an interest in ethical matters arising in legal practice in general and has developed a particular interest in strata law ethical legal issues which have become more prevalent with the growth of strata law legal practice.
