

PRESENTERS

James Mellsop, Vice President, Charles River Associates (Asia Pacific) Ltd, Auckland

James directs CRA's New Zealand Competition Practice. He specialises in competition and regulatory economics, law and economics, and auction market issues. His experience includes advising private sector clients on the economic implications of mergers, contracts, behaviour and regulatory interventions, in a variety of industries including telecommunications, electricity, gas, health, dairy, transport, supermarkets, produce, manufacturing, software and rental cars. He has also advised the Commerce Commission and government departments on electricity price control, telecommunications, spectrum auctions, market power and other competition and regulatory matters.

James Palmer, Partner, Russell McVeagh, Wellington

James's areas of practice include competition and regulatory law, telecommunications/IT law and government process. James was an adjunct lecturer at Victoria University of Wellington between 1999 and 2001, lecturing in law and economics and cyberspace law. He studied economic analysis of the law in the United States and worked at the International Monetary Fund in Washington DC.

The presenters would like to thank the members of their firms who assisted in the preparation of this seminar book. In particular, they would like to thank Mike Wilkinson (Charles River Associates) and Tim McKessar (Russell McVeagh).

The statements and conclusions contained in this booklet are those of the author(s) only and not those of the New Zealand Law Society. This booklet has been prepared for the purpose of a Continuing Legal Education course. It is not intended to be a comprehensive statement of the law or practice, and should not be relied upon as such. If advice on the law is required, it should be sought on a formal, professional basis.
