

PRESENTERS

Helen Aikman, Barrister

A Crown Counsel since 1994, and Deputy Solicitor-General until October 2003, Helen had responsibility of the Law Officer, Treaty Issues and Human Rights Group. During her time at the Crown Law Office she has worked as part of the Treaty Issues and International Law team, and headed the team responsible for advising and representing the government on issues concerning the regulation of its commercial activities.

Janet McLean

A teacher of public and administrative law, Janet's research interests include privatisation and corporatisation, contracting as a form of regulation, the Bill of Rights, and legal personality. She has served as an independent adviser to the Attorney-General on rights protection in New Zealand and is a member of the Legislation Advisory Committee.

Lyn Stevens QC

Lyn specialises in corporate, commercial law, public and administrative law. He has conducted many judicial review proceedings in all jurisdictions including the Privy Council. He specialises in Commerce Act and education issues and is a member of the Serious Fraud Prosecution Panel.

CONTENTS

1. INTRODUCTION	1
The role of and reasons for Judicial Review	1
2. PRELIMINARY MATTERS	3
Who is reviewable?: Judicature Amendment Act 1972	3
Who should you name in pleadings as the public body?	6
Who can take a judicial review action?	6
Justiciability	6
Concurrent actions in public and private law	7
3. THE GROUNDS OF REVIEW	9
Illegality	9
Unfairness	11
Unreasonableness	15
4. RECENT CONTEXTUAL DEVELOPMENTS	19
International treaties	19
Principles of the Treaty of Waitangi	20
New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990 (“NZBORA”)	21
Human Rights Act 1993 (“HRA”)	21
5. REMEDIES IN JUDICIAL REVIEW	23
Relief discretionary	23
6. FUTURE PROSPECTS	25
APPENDIX – STATEMENT OF CLAIM	27